Subject: Expression of Gratitude for the generous gift of the book "The Wanderer Who Owns the World".

Revered Swamiji,

On behalf of Mahatma Gandhi Rural Development and Panchayati Raj University, Gadag, I extend my heartfelt gratitude and profound respect to Your Holiness for the gracious gift of copies of your esteemed book, "The Wanderer Who Owns the World."

We consider this generous contribution much more than a gift of books. It is a valuable sharing of wisdom, experience and deeper reflections on life. The thoughts and insights contained in the book have the potential to inspire readers to look beyond material pursuits and reflect upon the values of self-awareness, humility, inner growth and purposeful living.

As a University committed to education, research, rural development and the holistic development of students, we greatly value contributions that enrich the intellectual and ethical dimensions of our academic community. Your book will be a meaningful addition to our University library and will provide our students, faculty members and researchers an opportunity to engage with ideas concerning spirituality, wisdom, human values and the larger purpose of life.

In an age marked by rapid technological advancement and increasing material aspirations, your contribution serves as a gentle reminder of the importance of nurturing compassionate, responsible and value-oriented human beings. We are honoured to preserve your work in our library and make it accessible to the University community.

We receive your gracious gift with deep humility, reverence and gratitude. May the wisdom and values embodied in your work continue to inspire generations of young minds to pursue knowledge with humility, live with purpose and contribute meaningfully to the welfare of society.

Once again, I sincerely thank Your Holiness for this thoughtful and invaluable contribution and for sharing your wisdom with our University.

With deepest respect and reverence,

Yours faithfully,

(Prof. Dr. Suresh V. Nadagoudar)
